NEW BUILDING FOR MINERAL EXHIBIT

Bill Presented to the General Assembly Calls for an Appropriation of $250,000 for New Public Building at the Capitol.

RICHMOND, VA.—Special.—Captain W. W. Baker today offered in the House a bill to provide for the erection of a building in which to display the mineral and timber exhibit now located in the State by the Virginia Mineral and Timber Exhibit Association, and frequently exhibited at the Jamestown Exposition.

The bill provides that the sum of $250,000 or so much thereof as may be necessary, be appropriated out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the purpose of erecting a building in which to place the mineral and timber exhibit presented to the State by the Virginia Mineral and Timber Exhibit Association.

It is to be expended under the supervision of a commission, consisting of the Governor, who shall be ex-officio chairman, and two commissioners to be appointed by the Governor.

The commissioners shall have power to secure a suitable site in the city of Richmond, either by purchase or condemnation, on which to erect the building, which is to be of brick, stone, iron or steel, and have the mineral and timber exhibit and such other productions as may from time to time be collected by the Agricultural Department of the State, therein placed and displayed.

The commissioners shall be entitled to their expenses to permit the addition of not less than four stories should the necessity or occasion ever arise hereafter requiring the State to secure larger quarters.

The first story of the building is to be used for the purpose of the exhibit, and the second story shall be applied to the uses of such departments of the State government as are not now provided for in the Capitol.

If the sum asked for more than one-half shall be payable during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1909, and the remainder during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1910.

BEWARE OF WOMAN ON WITNESS STAND

CHICAGO.—Special.—"Remember, gentlemen of the bar, an oath means nothing to a woman, and she will have no truthfully expressed in her make-up anything that will require herself, all such cases being of record."

With these words and a few "more of the same," Congressman James Hamilton Lewis, who sometime ago moved to Chicago from the Pacific coast, took the breath away from 200 students of the Northwestern University Law School Monday night.

"On the other hand, if you are crossexamining her, be careful of how you state the grievance that has brought her to the witness stand. Be sure, unless you are sure of what it is, for, no matter what a woman does, if it be in the interest of truth and legitimate affection, the world will ever forgive her.

"Above all, remember that woman is a strange animal and never question her motive. Never ask a woman a questioner do that and make an enemy for life."

Mrs. Ruth Leavitt Announces That Separation From Her Artist Husband Is Final—Will Live Hereafter With Her Father.

OMAHA, NEB.—Special.—That the separation between Ruth Bryan Leavitt, daughter of William J. Bryan, and her husband is final is indicated in a letter Mrs. Leavitt has written to Miss Edith Locke, a society reporter on a local paper and former classmate of Mrs. Leavitt.

Since going to Europe with her mother, Mrs. Leavitt has written to Miss Locke, saying she will not visit Mr. Leavitt, who at present is taking an advanced course in art in Paris, although Mrs. Bryan and her daughter will spend several days in that city.

"I consider the separation between my husband and myself permanent," she writes.

"Friends of the Leavitts have heard much of domestic differences, but this is the first intimation of irreparable differences. Mrs. Leavitt is expected to take up her residence in the Bryan home at Lincoln upon her return from abroad.

Ruth Bryan was married October 3, 1903. When Mr. and Mrs. Bryan sent out invitations to the marriage it marked the first time in history that in which the strong will of the father had been overcome by his girl's stronger will of the daughter. In what the utmost shall these invitations signified was a story of supreme effort put forth by Mr. Bryan to prevent the wedding of their daughter to the young widower of New York.

WRECKED HOME OF BRYAN'S DAUGHTER

Vandals Enter Residence While Mrs. Leavitt Is in Europe and Break Furniture and Dishes.

DENVER, COLO.—Special.—Mrs. Ruth Bryan Leavitt, W. J. Bryan's daughter, is in Europe with her husband. The tenants she left in her house moved out a week ago. Yesterday a neighbor heard a dog howling in the house, found a door open and liberated the animal. He also found a scene of wreckage and called others to investigate with him.

Every drawer that had been emptied upon the floor, the private letters and papers of the family were scattered over the house, furniture and dishes were broken, and every room but the kitchen was a mass of wreckage. The destruction was complete.

Six weeks ago a cut averaging 25 cents in a day's work was made in the company, affecting the whole force of about 1,400 hands.

Two weeks later the company put in the mill men an additional 10 cents on the dollar. This ten cents represented a premium the company had previously put on steady working men, who worked regularly six days a week.

Today's cut affects some of the men as much as $5 cents a day.

About 2:00 the men went out this morning. The effect of shutting down the labor department will soon leave other departments nothing to do.

GOVERNMENT TO KEEP CAPT. CARTER'S $400,000

CHICAGO, ILL.—Special.—Oberlin M. Carter, former army engineer, is by imprisonment in the penitentiary of $700,000, has failed to save for himself the $400,000 held in trust for which the United States Government claims as part of the money of which he defrauded the Government, the United States Circuit Court today decision which favors the Government claim to the funds of Captain Carter, who received the money in the days when he was run down by Federal detectives, every deposit made was traced and tied up with suits in Federal courts. By agreement all these suits were consolidated and tried in the case of the United States vs. Carter, and in its order sustaining the Government's claim to the money represented part of the evidence in the contempt of the conspiracy of its engineer with Graft and Gaynor, the contractors who got long legal fights, have gone for weeks to prison.

River and harbor improvements at the Chicago Canal were carried on under the direction of Captain Carter. This money Carter said was given him by his father-in-law, the late Robert E. Westcott, of New York, who was in some kind of partnership with Greene and Gaynor.

Judge Kohlsaat held that all money which had any connection with Greene and Gaynor was tainted, and could not be transferred through Westcott to Carter, and rightfully belonged to the United States. The defendant's lawyers say, but the case will be carried to the United States Supreme Court.

The government claims that the money belongs to the people of the United States, because the court did not pronounce him guilty of actual fraud but of neglect in detecting the fraud of others and involuntary wrongdoing, especially accepting stolen property.

FORBID INTERFERENCE OF FEDERAL COURT

WASHINGTON. — Special. — In asking the Supreme Court of the United States to issue a writ of mandamus to the Circuit Court of Appeals, suits over which jurisdiction was claimed, the State of Nebraska is sprung an innovation which may be of far reaching effect. What does seem to be a precedent was established by Nebraska, acting for its State, has filed a brief that is pronounced by lawyers to be unique. The brief is in support of the motion for the writ of injunction for the mandamus, and the Supreme Court will hear arguments by Thompson when the cases come up for hearing.

The brief which the Nebraska attorneys have prepared is a demurrer to the jurisdiction of the United States in their respective cases. The demurrer is based on the Federal Employers' Liability Act and Debs case, in which Justice Brewer held that the Federal court had no authority to make a financial interest at stake in order to confer upon it the right to a real party.

Does It Pay to Be a Lawyer?

In the United States today there are more lawyers in any other profession or calling, and probably more in proportion to the number there are in Virginia. Some of these offices are splendid, and profitable, but the colleges are turning them out faster than they can be filled, and the fight for business is getting the battles of life.

In new States there are from 10,000 lawyers, three-fourths of whom are dependent for their incomes from their practice a community of livelihood. With from 10 to 20 per cent, are successful practitioners, and the balance are starving. The monopoly upon the better class of business it is safe to say is not remaining 50 per cent. make on an average less than $1,200 a year.

In many law offices in our larger cities it is said only one-half or one-third of the lawyers occupying the rooms are making a living, the insignificant cog in the machinery. With $15 to $25 a week, and sometimes a contingent fee, to hold their positions.

A moderate fee in all from $15 to $20 a year, and a fee of $5 to $10. A clerk in a dry goods store, a bookkeeper at $20 a week, a bank clerk in a position, or machinist earns a salary.

Many business men, a traveling salesman, a commission and a $5,000 a year, a reporter on a daily, a good more money than a lawyer. What does young lawyer, in the face of these conditions, do? If you were asked him. Does it? Ohio Magazine.

RECEIPT OF PENSION NO BAR TO SENATE

Gravatt is Sworn in as Senator From Thirty-second District Without Opposition—Is Assigned to Important Committee.

RICHMOND, VA.—Special.—That the receipt of a Federal pension by way of retired officers' pay, is not a disqualification for a seat in the Senate of Virginia, is a fact now definitely ascertained. The Senate itself determined the matter when it passed upon the qualification of Mr. J. Gravatt, of Carolina county, and admitted to him the oath of office as Senator from the Thirty-second district. The Senate is the court of last resort as to the qualification of members.

The alleged disqualification to be a member by reason of being at the time a retired naval officer, on pension, was urged against Dr. Gravatt with great force during the time of his nomination by the Democratic caucus of Senator Henry T. Wickham, who have lost paper, and when the ballots were cast. From the day of legal opinions published on the subject, and which formed such a prominent feature of the campaign, seemed practically certain, to be the decision that the objection to Dr. Gravatt filling the office of Senator from the Thirty-second district, and the Senate Chamber; but so far as the records show not a shred of evidence the doctor taking his seat was in order to succeed in his election. He took the oath of office with the usual formalities, and the question seemed to be settled.

Senator Wickham 'contest asserted in a formal letter to the Senate that it was the first proceeding in the history of the commonwealth of Virginia in the practice of permitting a pensioned officer to sit through the representatives in the General Assembly of Virginia, in the Pinkney, in the cases for their own regulation. The same slogan was "oust the rail-lawyer from the Legislature."

Wickham, the incumbent who lost re-election, was general counsel for the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway.

He had represented his district better part of four terms as one of its members. He had prestige and popularity. He was not returned.

The new Senator is a man slightly of middle age, but still enjoying a vigorous manhood. He was formerly a surgeon in the United States Navy, now on its retired list. He has been a prominent factor in politics of the county of Carolina, and the district to which it belongs, and in connection with Carter, because the court did not pronounce him guilty of actual fraud but of neglect in detecting the fraud of others and involuntary wrongdoing, especially accepting stolen property.

Carter, former army engineer, is by imprisonment in the penitentiary of $700,000, has failed to save for himself the $400,000 held in trust for which the United States Government claims as part of the money of which he defrauded the Government, the United States Circuit Court today decision which favors the Government claim to the funds of Captain Carter, who received the money in the days when he was run down by Federal detectives, every deposit made was traced and tied up with suits in Federal courts. By agreement all these suits were consolidated and tried in the case of the United States vs. Carter, and in its order sustaining the Government's claim to the money represented part of the evidence in the contempt of the conspiracy of its engineer with Graft and Gaynor, the contractors who got long legal fights, have gone for weeks to prison.

River and harbor improvements at the Chicago Canal were carried on under the direction of Captain Carter. This money Carter said was given him by his father-in-law, the late Robert E. Westcott, of New York, who was in some kind of partnership with Greene and Gaynor.

Judge Kohlsaat held that all money which had any connection with Greene and Gaynor was tainted, and could not be transferred through Westcott to Carter, and rightfully belonged to the United States. The defendant's lawyers say, but the case will be carried to the United States Supreme Court.

The government claims that the money belongs to the people of the United States, because the court did not pronounce him guilty of actual fraud but of neglect in detecting the fraud of others and involuntary wrongdoing, especially accepting stolen property.

FORBID INTERFERENCE OF FEDERAL COURT

WASHINGTON. — Special. — In asking the Supreme Court of the United States to issue a writ of mandamus to the Circuit Court of Appeals, suits over which jurisdiction was claimed, the State of Nebraska is sprung an innovation which may be of far reaching effect. What does seem to be a precedent was established by Nebraska, acting for its State, has filed a brief that is pronounced by lawyers to be unique. The brief is in support of the motion for the writ of injunction for the mandamus, and the Supreme Court will hear arguments by Thompson when the cases come up for hearing.

The brief which the Nebraska attorneys have prepared is a demurrer to the jurisdiction of the United States in their respective cases. The demurrer is based on the Federal Employers' Liability Act and Debs case, in which Justice Brewer held that the Federal court had no authority to make a financial interest at stake in order to confer upon it the right to a real party.

TO BUILD AN AIRSHIP TO CARRY 100 PERSONS

BERLIN.—Special.—Count Zeppelin proposes to build an airship to carry 100 persons. He calculates that it will be necessary to lift it only twenty-six feet longer than his latest airship in order to get room for 100 persons, in addition to 200 pounds of ballast.

Experts believe that the Count succeed in his undertaking.

Does It Pay to Be a Lawyer?

In the United States today there are more lawyers in any other profession or calling, and probably more in proportion to the number there are in Virginia. Some of these offices are splendid, and profitable, but the colleges are turning them out faster than they can be filled, and the fight for business is getting the battles of life.

In new States there are from 10,000 lawyers, three-fourths of whom are dependent for their incomes from their practice a community of livelihood. With from 10 to 20 per cent, are successful practitioners, and the balance are starving. The monopoly upon the better class of business it is safe to say is not remaining 50 per cent. make on an average less than $1,200 a year.

In many law offices in our larger cities it is said only one-half or one-third of the lawyers occupying the rooms are making a living, the insignificant cog in the machinery. With $15 to $25 a week, and sometimes a contingent fee, to hold their positions.

A moderate fee in all from $15 to $20 a year, and a fee of $5 to $10. A clerk in a dry goods store, a bookkeeper at $20 a week, a bank clerk in a position, or machinist earns a salary.

Many business men, a traveling salesman, a commission and a $5,000 a year, a reporter on a daily, a good more money than a lawyer. What does young lawyer, in the face of these conditions, do? If you were asked him. Does it? Ohio Magazine.
